

I'm very much in favor of allowing cable subscribers to choose which channels they want to receive and pay for. Right now we have no choice of cable providers, and we must pay for all the channels the provider offers in a package. I would much rather just receive and pay for those channels that I actually watch. I don't like having to pay for something that I never intend to use.